Message from the CEO

PAUL GUERRA
RASV CEO

The Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria (RASV) is delighted to present the results of the 2018 Australian Distilled Spirits Awards (ADSA).

The 2018 ADSA received a record 297 entries from 86 exhibitors, a 20% increase on the number of entries from last year with the largest number of exhibitors from Victoria with 23. The gin category was particularly strong, with a 60% increase entries from across the country.

This significant growth in the competition is a testament to the flourishing Australian spirits industry and the importance and relevance of the ADSA to distillers.

As Australia's original and largest national spirits competition, the ADSA provides distillers with an essential benchmarking opportunity, highlighting the innovation and excellence of Australian-manufactured spirits and liqueurs.

To all exhibitors, we thank you for your consistent dedication to quality and excellence and for producing world-class spirits and liqueurs, as we have seen in this year's awards.

The entries were assessed by a line up of leading specialists in spirits and liqueurs, led by Head Judge Sam Bygrave, editor of Australian Bartender Magazine. We thank the judges for their dedication, professionalism and enthusiasm in assessing the entries to such a high standard.

The awards would not be possible without the support of the valued sponsors and the many volunteers and stewards and we sincerely appreciate their time and generosity in the delivery of the ADSA.

We are thrilled to see the strong growth in the Australian distilling industry and the ADSA, and we look forward to continued development and innovation in 2019.

Message from the Head Judge

SAM BYGRAVE
AUSTRALIAN DISTILLED SPIRIT AWARDS
HEAD JUDGE

The Australian Distilled Spirits Awards are, for me, a demonstration of the good spirits in the Australian spirits industry and a reminder of the passion that goes into producing these products for the public. To see the breadth of talent producing quality liquor from all parts of Australia is a heartening and humbling experience. It's impressive to see the number of entries growing every year since the inception of the Australian Distilled Spirits Awards, this year seeing a 20% increase on last year.

Gin continues to be the big story at the awards, with some 130 exhibits entered split between the classic London Dry style of gin, and the no-holds barred category of New World gin. The panels that saw these exhibits certainly had their work cut out for them.

I'd like to extend my thanks to the judges and associates for their time and their efforts this year. We've broadened the pool of associates this year and made the judging panel stronger than ever. And although it's pretty great work to be assessing the spirits coming from the Australian distilled spirits industry right now, a big thank you to them for lending their palates to the process and for taking time out of their lives to support this initiative.

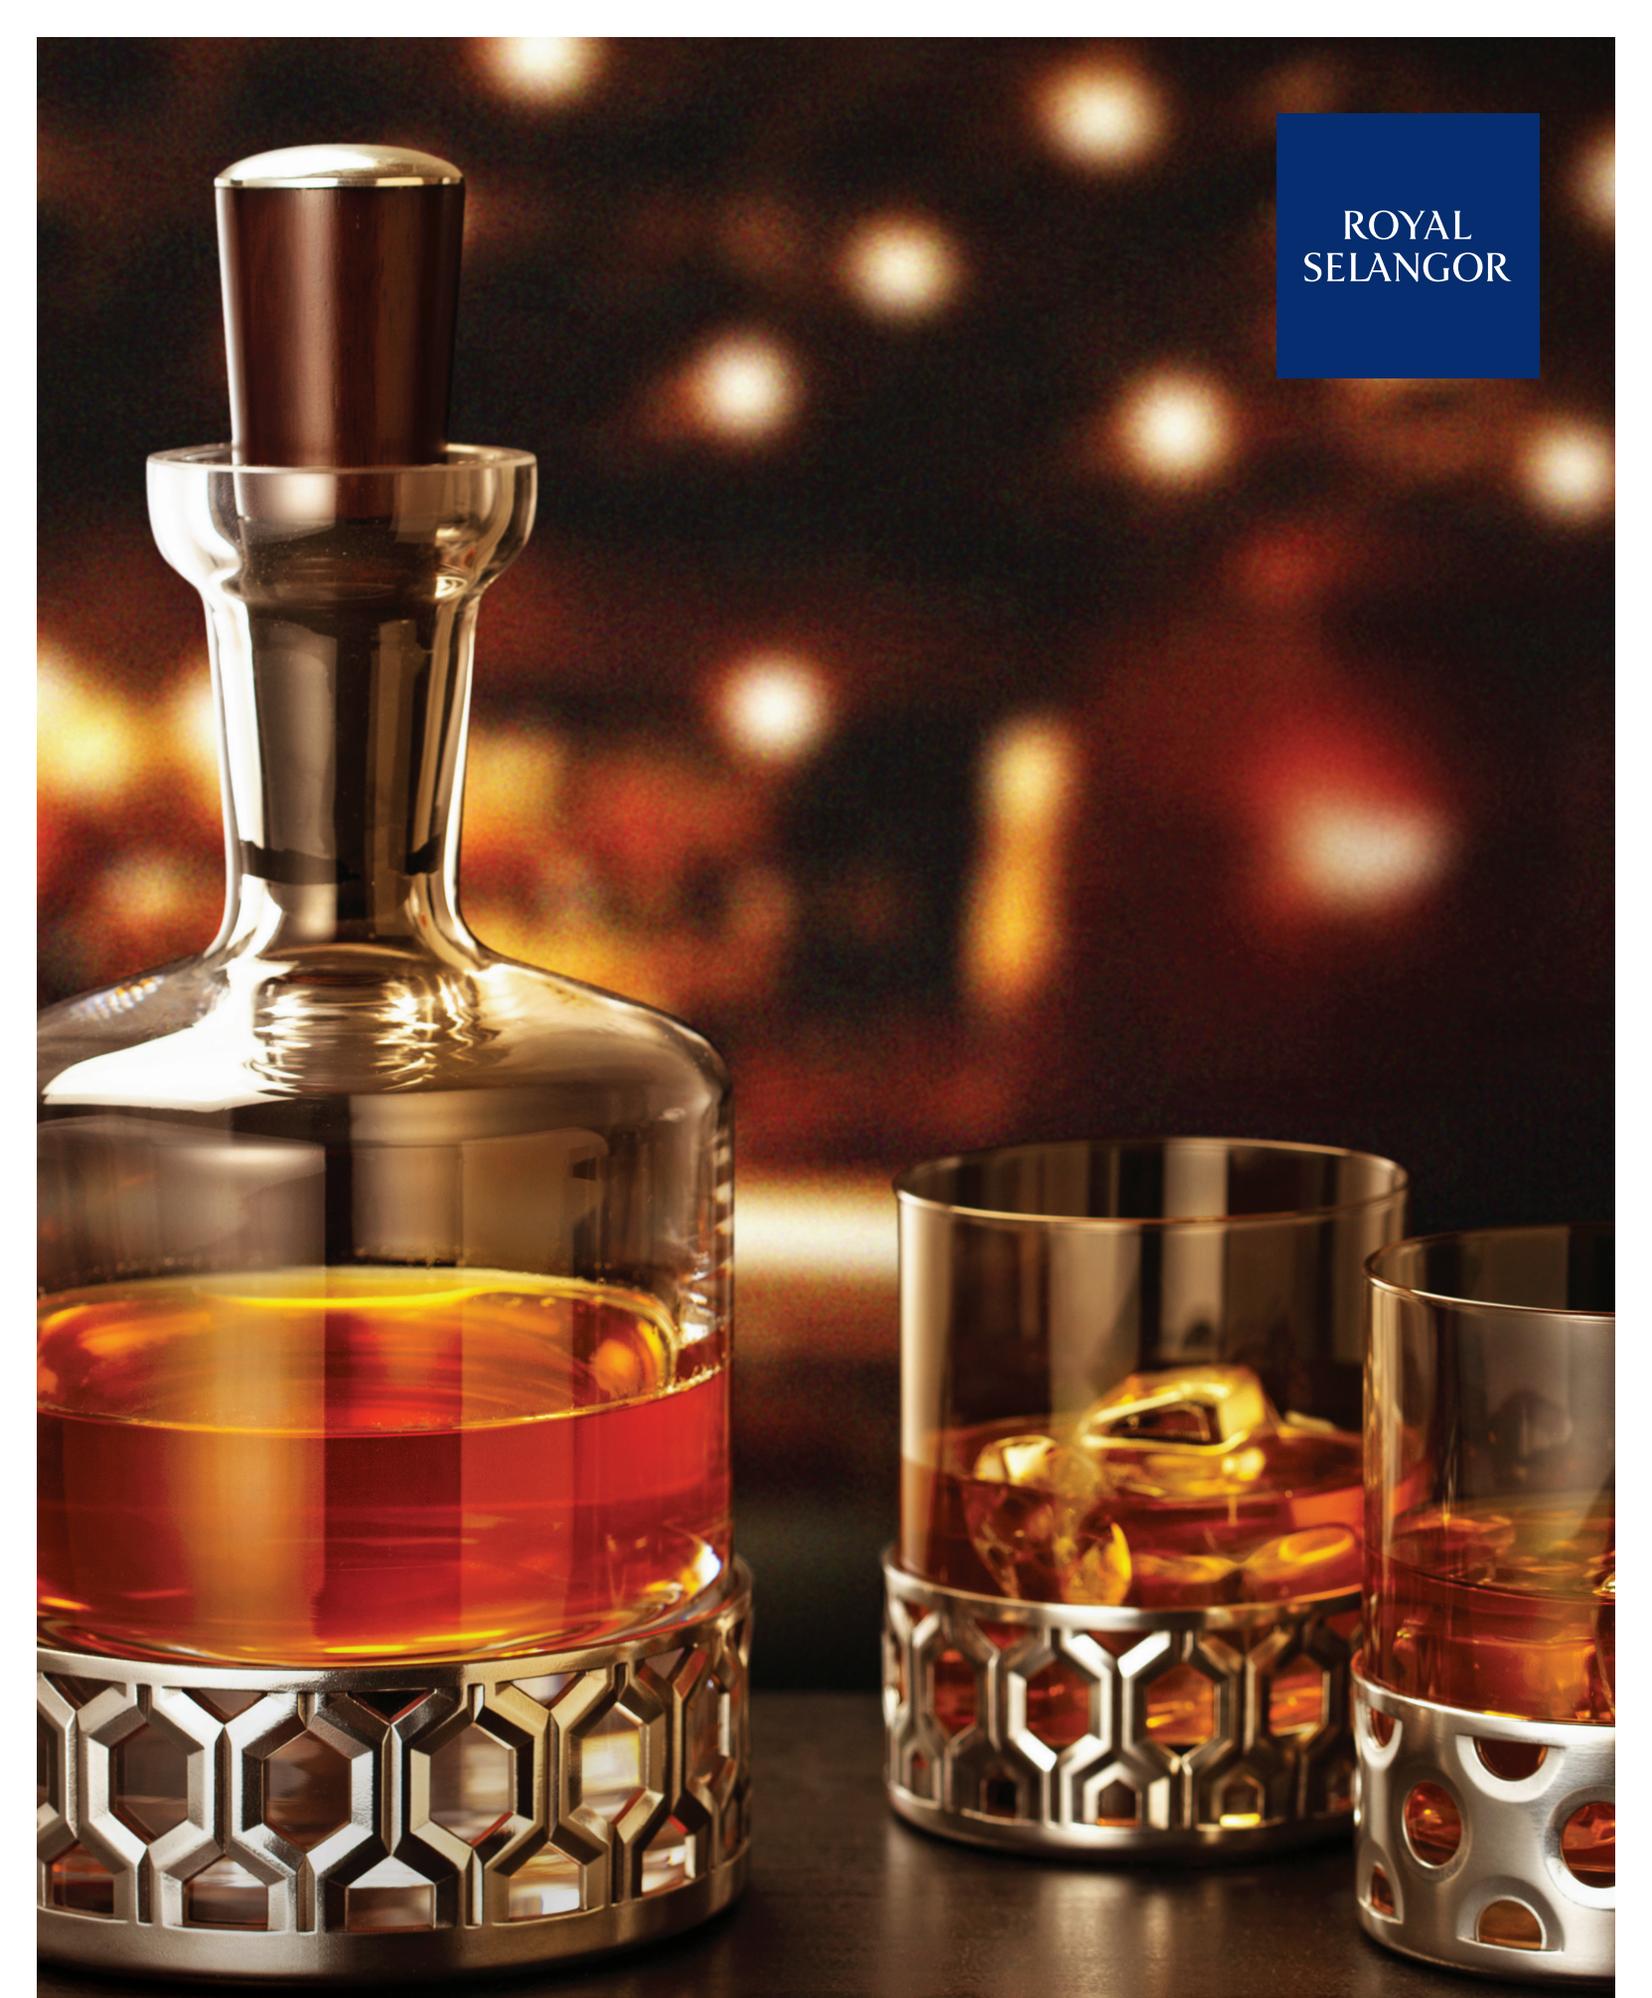

And thank you to the panel chairs in particular: Sebastian Costello, Julian White, Sebastian Raeburn, and Fred Siggins. Your guidance and professionalism saw each panel running smoothly and gave the exhibits the attention and consideration they deserved.

Thank you, too, to the makers of these great spirits. It's not an easy thing to put your work out there to be judged against the work of your peers, especially when it's the result of many years' work, time, investment, and passion.

Lastly, I'd like to thank the stewards and the team at the RASV led by Michael Katoa for the work that goes into producing this vital event each year. As an avid consumer of Australian spirits, the benchmarking that this process enables is a unequivocal win for the broader public.

On behalf of the judging panel, I know I can say we're all very proud to be a part of this rewarding and eye-opening experience, and that there's never been a better time to be drinking Australian spirits. The industry is in good health.

A glass decanter and two glasses of whisky on a dark surface with a bokeh background. The decanter is on the left, filled with amber liquid, and sits on a silver-colored metal base with a geometric pattern. To its right are two glasses, one larger and one smaller, both containing whisky and ice cubes, also resting on similar metal bases. The background is dark with out-of-focus warm lights.
