TRIP/AGENCY

WELCOME

SIR JAMES GOBBO
Governor of Victoria

SHOWTIME is a special time in Melbourne, as the beginning of Spring heralds an annual event which holds a special place in the hearts of Victorians.

For 11 days, the Royal Melbourne Show will become the centre stage for showcasing the best across all aspects of agriculture, commerce and art and craft.

This will be a landmark year for the Royal Melbourne Show as its organisers, the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria Limited, commemorate 150 years of promoting excellence in agriculture.

From the early ploughing match held in 1848 on Moonee Ponds, the Royal Melbourne Show has grown to become the largest event in our State.

For Victorians and our visitors, the Royal Melbourne Show provides exciting insights into our industries and commerce. As Governor of Victoria, I welcome everyone to the 140th Royal Melbourne Show.

It is the place where country and city come together, and it represents the culmination of the year in agriculture and agricultural business with a total of 122 regional shows leading into the Royal Melbourne Show.

Generations of Victorians have fond memories of trips to the Show and it is our support which ensures that this tradition will continue into the next century.

JEFF KENNETT
Premier of Victoria

THIS year marks a significant milestone for the Royal Agricultural Society and its role in the development of Victoria. It is 150 years since the Society's formation and the staging of the first Royal Melbourne Show — a ploughing match at Moonee Ponds that turned into one of Victoria's institutions.

The Show and the Society have played an integral role in Victoria's development as a centre for agricultural, horticultural and viticultural excellence and enhancing our reputation as a leader in research and development in the farming section.

The 1998 Royal Melbourne Show will not only highlight innovation, but emphasise tradition to delight visitors from across Victoria and around Australia.

It is gratifying that the mix of city and country influences that make up the Show are as relevant and enjoyable today as they were 150 years ago and will remain so for the next 150 years.

During the 11 days of the Show there will be something for everyone to enjoy, so welcome to Melbourne and the biggest event in Victoria. Enjoy.

BOB POTTER
President, Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria

THE 1998 Royal Melbourne Show marks 150 years of Showing in Victoria and we have some wonderful entertainment and displays to celebrate this landmark anniversary.

Main Arena activities include Ben Hur-style chariot racing, the Holden Precision Driving Team, tent pegging and Grand Parades, culminating each evening with a spectacular Fireworks Extravaganza.

There will be world-class Showjumping with the World Cup Qualifying at night on the Main Arena, with the audience seated on the arena close to the action.

Barn Tours will take place through the hugely-popular Animal Pavilions, plus there will be the ever-popular Wonderful World of Pets with a new mini-beast display.

The Whisky Hill Wool Shed will excite the imagination of young and old alike with its shearing shed of a bygone age complete with billy tea, poets and balladeers spreading their love of the bush.

'Future Harvest' is a new exhibition illustrating what the 21st century could have in store for farmers.

Nature's Way will be featured again where actual births can be seen — much to the delight (and education) of youngsters.

There are more than 32,000 competitive entries covering every variety of animal. The vast array of free activities will ensure that everyone will have a great day at the Show.

It's an ENTERTAINMENT EXTRAVAGANZA at the Show

NO matter which way you turn at the Royal Melbourne Show, there's always a fun and exciting attraction nearby.

During the 11 Show days, the grounds become home to hundreds of acts, shows, dancers, magicians, clowns and various attractions.

The Main Arena this year will be abuzz with action, especially at night. Highlights include the Holden Precision Driving Team, Chariot Racing, the Big Blokes Ballet (earthmovers!), fireworks and tent pegging.

The ever-popular Dugdale Theatre is well known for its crowd-pleasing performers, and the Streets Lawn Stage will feature top acts.

The Human Cannonball and Pig Racing return to the Woodchop Lawn while on the Eat Well, Live Well, Family Entertainment Lawn, Ferret Racing, Alf Dundy and a Hole-in-One competition will be features.

11 days of top fun

This year's Royal Melbourne Show has something for every member of the family

THE biggest event in the event state — the Royal Melbourne Show — starts Victoria's annual celebration of agricultural excellence, entertainment and commerce from next week.

For 11 days, the Showgrounds in Ascot Vale come alive as around 750,000 visitors taste, touch and experience a huge variety of attractions.

The Show has something for every member of the family — thrilling rides, street theatre, showbags, animals of all shapes and sizes, horticulture, education, Main Arena entertainment and hundreds of competitive judging classes and events, from making jam to wood chopping.

On show will be almost 1200 beef cattle, 5500 horses and 5200 dogs, plus several thousand dairy cattle, cage birds, covies, rabbits, sheep, alpacas, cats, poultry and domestic pets.

Several pavilions have been set aside for children and parents to observe and touch the many cute and cuddly creatures around the Showgrounds.

The Royal Show Horticulture exhibit now fills three sites with all the splendor of Victoria's horticultural industry.

Visitors to the new Whisky Hill Wool Shed (formerly Centenary Hall) will go back in time to Australia's colonial days. The shed features a shearer's camp with shearing demonstrations using modern and traditional shearing equipment.

The Wool Shed will be filled with the voices of poets and balladeers reciting their unique blend of Australian literature. And a story teller will bring history alive for children of all ages with tales about life as an early settler.

And no Show would be complete without the huge selection of showbags.

This year's Show will be one to remember. No wonder it's known as the biggest event in the event state.

Theme days

Farm Sunday — September 20

The Main Arena of the Showgrounds comes alive on Farm Sunday when it is invaded by all manner of farming activities of today and yesterday. Witness the beautiful ute competition, hay sheaf tossing, whip cracking and sheepdog exhibitions to name a few.

Super Seniors Day at the Royal Melbourne Show is a must for every senior member of the community. This special day features a variety of activity and entertainment aimed at our more senior members of the public. There is a free GIO sausage sizzle, complimentary morning tea provided by Seniors Card, the Sisters of Swing and the South Ballarat Senior Citizens group to get things really moving.

The Green Day Out will feature a celebrity recycling sorting race and many specialist displays in Plummer Avenue to answer every "green" query.

Showies toil to put the fun into the fair

THE days of hand-powered rides and tent boxing troupes may have ended, but a special breed of person still provides the heartbeat for any show.

That's the close-knit travelling band of spruikers, ride operators and caterers known as "showies".

These business professionals — sometimes spanning two or three generations — have kept crowds entertained since before the turn of the century.

In Victoria, most showies are members of the Victorian Showmen's Guild, established in 1945.

Guild members provide many of the rides, games and canteens/catering at agricultural shows throughout Victoria.

All 340 members of the guild are proud of their heritage and close links to the Royal Melbourne Show.

It's not a lifestyle for everyone. The fierce competition ensures that show patrons, young and old, get the best in entertainment.

Any showie worth his or her salt knows that if their area of entertainment is not up to the standards demanded by today's customers, there's always someone ready to snap up their part of what is now a multi-million dollar business.

So next time you wander through a sideshow alley, take one of the many rides or just soak up the atmosphere of a show, remember the role played by the showies.

They toil for many hours, long after the bright lights are switched off, all in the name of fun and a good time.

Thrill seekers BEWARE

THRILL seekers will face a new challenge at the Show this year with two white-knuckle attractions designed for maximum fun and excitement.

They are the Tornado and Kaos.

Royal Melbourne will be the Tornado's first appearance at a Show in Australia. One of its features is you get to control how fast your carriage spins while the ride is running.

Equine diversity: The Show will feature about 2000 horses competing in events including dressage, jumping, tent pegging and camp drafting.

On for young and old: Riders of all ages will have the chance to display their skills.

Elegance and style in historic classes

HISTORIC Sidesaddle Classes will be the focus of this year's Royal Melbourne Show horse exhibition.

They coincide with the 150th anniversary of the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria, which is host of the Show each year.

The Sidesaddle competition will feature elegant ladies dressed in period costume including the ankle-length "apron", similar to a skirt and ideal for riding side saddle.

The unique style of the Sidesaddle Classes represents all the finesse, beauty and skill that Show riding is renowned for.

Sidesaddle Classes will be run on the traditional Farm Sunday of the Show, September 20, and will be judged by Jan Colclough, a successful exhibitor in hacking and dressage for more than 30 years.

New features of the horse section this year include Show Hunter classes for ponies and galloways. They will cater for animals which have more substance than the modern riding pony but still maintain quality.

Other features of the horse program are the World Cup Qualifier under lights at 7pm on Thursday, September 24, on the Main Arena and a team of South African Police riders which will compete in the tent pegging along with the Victorian Police squad.

Free attraction: Guided Barn Tours will take visitors through many of the Show's animal pavilions. The 45-minute tours will be casual, informative and entertaining. They start from the lawn area opposite Cattle Pavilion One, map reference C5.

All creatures great and small

THE Show is built around the display and judging of animals, with more than 32,000 competitive entries in cattle, horses, sheep, dogs, cats, poultry, rabbits, caviae and pigeons.

So there's no better place for the family to learn about animals of all shapes and sizes.

Six pavilions have been set aside at the Show specifically for interactive learning about pets and other domestic creatures. There's the Devondale Nature's Way, where you can see an actual birth; the NAB Animal Nursery, where children and adults can come face-to-face with many farm animals; Horses for Courses, to discover the joys of owning a horse; the Nutrience Wonderful World of Pets, to learn how to care for pets; the Farrier's Forge, which includes a working blacksmith; and Pigs and People, where the life of pigs is revealed.

An added animal bonus this year will be "Barn Tours" that will provide small groups with a casual, entertaining and informative 45-minute walk through many of the Show's animal pavilions.

These free tours will run at regular intervals during each day of the Show.

The ever-popular Nutrience Wonderful World of Pets will be even bigger and better this year with the addition of a mini-beast display.

Visitors can see tiny but sturdy creatures like a praying mantis and a variety of beetles, and how they go about their day-to-day business.

Beef judging will move to the Main Arena from 9am on Thursday, September 24, with the Interbreed Championship the following day.

Dairy cattle are also well represented with Friesians, Jerseys, Guernseys and Ayrshires on display.

● Barastoc is the exclusive stockfeed supplier to the Royal Melbourne Show.

Competitive carcasses

PREENING sheep and cattle and parading them around a show ring forms the common image of the Royal Melbourne Show.

But the business end of livestock judging is the carcass competition.

That is where objective measurements, such as fat content and eye muscle area, are used to grade the meat which ends up on our dinner tables.

The beef and prime lamb carcass competitions, sponsored by The Weekly Times, involve both live appraisal before the animals are sent to an abattoir and the meat judged according to price grids used by commercial processors.

This year's Royal Show sees the return of the prime lamb carcass competition after an absence of nearly 20 years.

Horticulture blooms at the Show

A HORTICULTURAL Harvest is the theme for this year's horticultural display at the Show — and there are three great venues, including Future Harvest, an exhibition from Museum Victoria.

Future Harvest will showcase new and innovative farming ideas with an emphasis on diversification and environmental awareness. Future Harvest will take shape on the ground floor of the MMFP Pavilion.

The three displays will reinforce the Show's reputation for colorful and clever displays of arranged fruits and vegetables which showcase Victoria's horticultural industry.

The Coles Hall of Horticulture features a variety of commercial sites and static displays including every budding flower producer's dream — the floral design competition, sponsored by Coles.

The Melbourne Markets Fresh Produce Pavilion will feature all the goodness of fresh market produce. And there will be regular cooking demonstrations.

And with spring and harvest in the air, no Show would be complete without a grains display.

The grains exhibition will feature the complete grain cycle — everything from sowing to weed control, to harvesting and production of consumable goods such as beer, bread, canola oil and margarine.

Another feature in line with the spring theme is the brand new Honey Pot, featuring free honey sampling, exhibits of prize honeys, a live bee display and educational kits on the life and times of bees.

All shapes and sizes: biggest dog show in the southern hemisphere.

Dogs' day out

WITH more than 6000 entries received each year, the Royal Melbourne Dog Show continues to be the biggest canine exhibition in the southern hemisphere.

This year will feature the usual top-quality lineup of hundreds of breeds as these well-manicured pets vie for the title of top dog at the Show.

At least two new and rare breeds will be added to the comprehensive lineup this year. The Kangal (a long-haired Anatolian sheepdog) and Ceski terrier (similar to a small bearded collie) will grace the judging rings for the first time.

The Kangal is from the Turkish Sheepdog family and is renowned for its size, courage and mastiff-like appearance. It has a distinctive black mask on its large head and has a short, dense coat of hair that ranges from dun to steel grey. It is an active working dog, used primarily to guard sheep and livestock.

Kangals are calm, alert and independent but very trainable. They are intelligent and sensitive. Mature adult males weigh 50-63.5kg while bitches weigh in at 41-59kg.

The Ceski Terrier is a short-legged dog, long-haired and well muscled with smallish, drop ears. Formerly bred as a hunting dog, today the Ceski is more a house and companion dog. Ceskis have a well balanced, non-aggressive nature and are pleasant and cheerful company.

Other features of the dog exhibition are twilight obedience judging, held each evening of the Show, and the spectacular agility judging, to be held on the last Sunday of the Show. There are three separate classes in the agility trials; novice, open and masters.

As in the past, the dog display will draw a host of international judges to the Show grounds. The judging lineup includes four international representatives with a wealth of experience.

Pavilions - the inside story

WHISKY HILL WOOL SHED

(Map ref: B5)

Visitors to the new Whisky Hill Wool Shed will go back in time to the colonial days of Australia. The Shed will be filled with the voices of poets and balladeers reciting their unique blend of Australian literature. And a story teller will bring history alive with tales about life as an early settler. Amid all this action will be daily fashion parades and shearing demonstrations, and visitors can shop at the many stands. Night-time rounds of the National Sportshear Championships will be held on the first weekend (19th and 20th).

NATIONAL MEAT PROMOTIONS CENTRE:

(Map Ref F3)

The National Meat Promotions Centre takes on a new look with more great meal ideas, cooking demonstrations and tastings than ever before.

For meat lovers, the Meat Promotions Centre will feature NMA 'A' Award retailer demonstrations supported by major food companies and Ikon Energy, CUB, CWB Australia and Lilydale Vineyards.

The secrets to fast and simple meals will be demonstrated every 20 minutes.

Join in judging the heats to find the 1998 Victorian Sausage King or try your luck in the Australian Good Taste magazine competition.

DAIRY FOODS PAVILION

(Map Ref: F3)

What better way can there be to get your three serves of dairy foods daily by sampling flavored and fermented milk, specialty cheeses, delicious yoghurts, dairy desserts and mouth-watering icecream which can be found inside the Pavilion.

The Australian Dairy Corporation will supply information on health and nutrition, plus provide delicious dairy based recipes, while commercial exhibitors will offer a broad range of dairy produce and showbags.

Visitors can sample and buy some of nature's finest milk, cream, cheese, and icecream, and also see Victoria's best dairy cuisine in a display of Royal Melbourne Dairy Show winners.

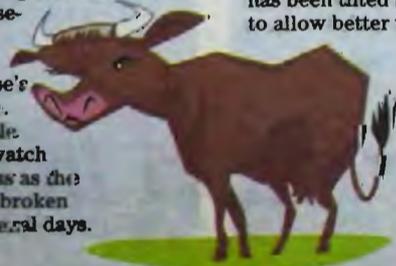

FARRIER'S FORGE

(Map Ref: A4)

The glowing coals and barn atmosphere of the Farrier's Forge makes this a great location to learn about Australia's heritage and traditional trades and skills.

Demonstrations of forging, horse dentistry, shoeing, breaking and wheel-wrighting are programmed around daily forging competitions.

Other attractions include horsemanship demonstrations where horse-breakers gradually gain a horse's confidence. Many people return to watch the progress as the horses are broken in over several days.

MELB. MARKETS FRESH PRODUCE PAVILION & COLES HALL OF HORTICULTURE

"Horticultural Harvest" is the theme for these two horticulture pavilions which this year will see an emphasis on fresh food as well as floral design, and information and products for gardeners.

The Melbourne Markets Fresh Produce Pavilion will be a spectacular showcase of fresh fruit, vegetables and flora including displays by the Victorian Agricultural Societies' Association. Watch and learn how to cook fresh fruit and vegetables in the "Fresh Daily Kitchen".

This year the bottom floor of the Melbourne Markets Fresh Produce Pavilion plays host to Future Harvest, a new exhibition from Museum Victoria.

Future Harvest will showcase several shining examples of successful efforts to improve agricultural sustainability and address environmental problems.

Walk through the special undercover walkway to the Coles Hall of Horticulture featuring spectacular entries in the Coles floral design competition and fresh food ideas.

Other horticultural attractions include the spectacular floral clock (map ref: D3) which this year has been tilted by 30 degrees to allow better viewing.

Flowers cover almost every surface of the clock, which is more than 5 metres in diameter.

DEVONDALE NATURE'S WAY

Last year 104 lambs were born throughout the Show in Nature's Way, a display which provides visitors with a first-hand look at how the next generation of farm animals comes into being.

Experts will answer the often curly questions in a simple and comfortable way. Commentary is provided throughout the birth.

Births are never induced, relying on "nature's way." For those not lucky enough to see an actual birth, two video monitors will show footage of calving and lambing on a farm.

NATIONAL AUSTRALIA BANK ANIMAL NURSERY

A slice of country life will greet visitors to the National Australia Bank Animal Nursery when they come face to face with many of the animals found on farms.

The display is complete with "patting" paddocks, fences, trees and sheds. The "interactive corner" will feature different animal feeds which can be felt, and a depiction of the life cycle of a chicken can be viewed.

Children have the opportunity to touch, smell and feed baby animals, including rare breeds of sheep and water fowl in the patting paddock. All animals in the nursery are accustomed to life in the spotlight.

PIGS & PEOPLE

(Map Ref: B4)

Each day, Pigs & People will present the four most popular breeds of pigs in Australia and outline their relevance to the industry. Then the pigs go to an ensuite to have a shower and drink to cool off.

Visitors can pat a pig in safety and see how a sow looks after her litter, which can be up to 20 piglets.

Children have a VIP lounge so they will not miss any of the action.

NUTRIENCE WONDERFUL WORLD OF PETS

The Nutrience Wonderful World of Pets will provide friendly access to companion animals ranging from the well known to the unusual and bizarre.

People can ask about domesticated animals including dogs, cats, guinea pigs, cage birds, fish, rabbits, ferrets, snakes and other pets.

A live snake demonstration will be held each day of the Show. This year sees the introduction of the mini-beast display where visitors can see tiny creatures like a praying mantis and beetles, and how they go about their day-to-day business.

HOME & LEISURE

(Map Ref G5)

At the Home & Leisure Pavilion shoppers will find many tempting bargains as well as a great range of education and informative displays. You'll find everything from children's clothing and hydrospas, to photography and property development, where many new and unique products await shoppers.

HORSES FOR COURSES

Horses for Courses is aimed at visitors who have an interest in horses, but little or no experience in their care. The display includes a demonstration ring with commentary on topics such as equipment and rider safety. Stabled horses represent the huge variation in breed size, color, shape and purpose while static displays provide contact points for information including groups such as pony clubs and TAFE courses.

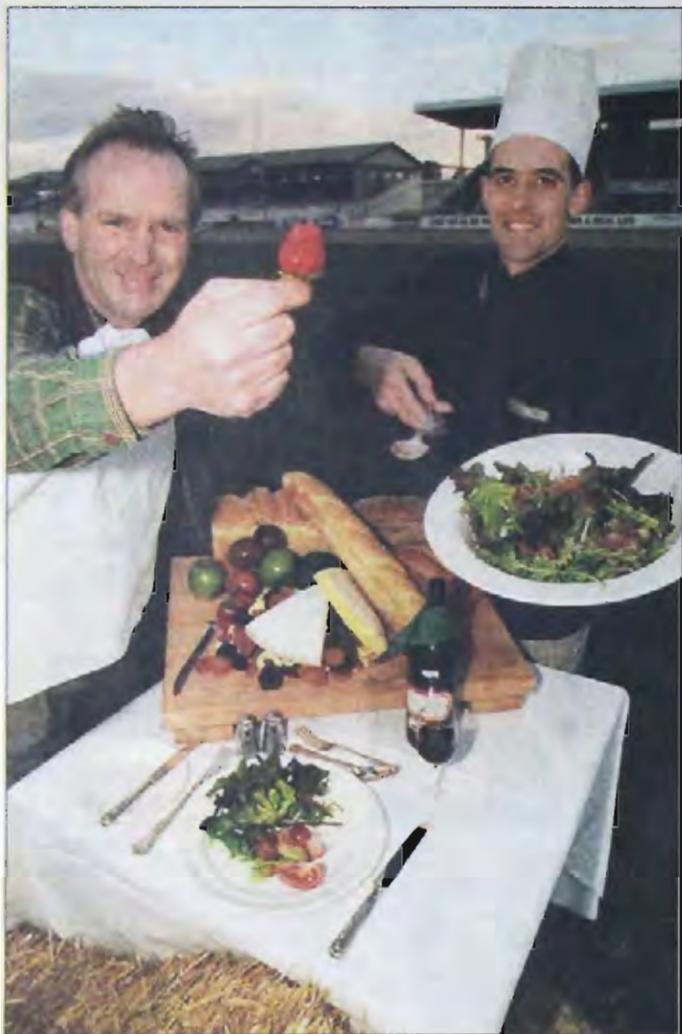

STREETS PADDLE POP ANIMAL WALK

Pick up a color "Animal Walk" map and follow the Paddle Pop Lion's paw prints to discover all the fun, educational, interactive animal pavilions.

Answer questions at each pavilion and get a free face paint on the Streets Lawn after the walk. Collect a map from any AGL Show Information Booth or roving Ambassadors, or ask any of the Streets representatives in safari suits with Paddle Pop Lion on their backs.

HONEY POT

The new Honey Pot (next to the Dugdale Theatre) is a hive of activity and learning associated with apiculture - free honey sampling, exhibits of prize-winning honey products, live bee display and information on the life and times of bees.

Food glorious food

THE Royal Melbourne Show is fast gaining a reputation as a home of fine dining and healthy eating.

Every palate is catered for by dozens of fine food vendors, each offering their own special flavors and textures.

The Heart Foundation, with funds provided by VicHealth, is helping the Society promote a message of Eat Well, Live Well at the Show, ensuring that patrons can enjoy a wide variety of food every day, particularly fruits, vegetables, breads and cereals.

Not only are healthy food choices available but there is also an incredible variety, ranging from quick snacks to three-course meals.

Examples of the huge variety and quality of food offered at the Show include:

- Fresh, juicy corn on the cob in the Rural Pavilion and on the Streets Lawn; all the fantastic flavors of flame-grilled chicken (available with a variety of spicy sauces) opposite the Mitchell Stand (previously Arnold's Diner).

- Fresh fruit and juices from the Melbourne Markets Fresh Produce Pavilion; honey from the apiarists next to the Dugdale Theatre; wonderful dairy produce in the Dairy Pavilion; and rice from Harvest Hall.

- Several of Melbourne's top restaurants will be at the Show, including Walter's Wine Bar from Southgate, Top Of The Bay from Williamstown, the Golden Rice Bowl from Chinatown, and the Itami Sushi Bar from many of Melbourne's best food courts.

- For more traditional food buffs there's an old-style spit roast in the Paddock to Plate Pavilion.

- Other tastebud tempters can be found in the Rural Pavilion where visitors can indulge in delights such as venison and yabbies. For something a little more exotic, there are stands retailing food with the delicate and exciting flavors and influences from Brazil, Africa and Asia.

- There's also the new Bushells Tea House just across the road from the Society's administration building.

- And no Show would be complete without the tireless efforts of the women in the Country Women's Association, known for its hearty breakfasts and fresh, country-style baking.

The Eat Well, Live Well message will be actively promoted through the Eat Well, Live Well Fabulous Food Friday on September 25 and at the Eat Well, Live Well Family Entertainment Lawn.

The Heart Foundation is also working with the Show to provide more smoke-free areas.

GOLFER'S DREAM

DEAD-EYE golfers will have the chance to win $100,000 at the Show — simply by putting straight.

The Super Putt competition is on daily from 9am to 10pm on the Eat Well, Live Well Family Entertainment Lawn. The winner will be decided on Grand Final Sunday, September 27. For $5, golfers will get five balls (an extra ball if the Show entry ticket is produced) during preliminary rounds. Players scoring two holes-in-one will advance to the next round.

Expo has plenty to do

THE Government Expo Centre at the Royal Melbourne Show is a creative mix of information and entertainment with some good old-fashioned fun and games thrown in.

It's an ideal place for families to visit with 25 interactive stands and many free activities to keep children and adults entertained for hours.

Last year the Expo Centre was voted best pavilion at the Show, and this year promises even more excitement and high-quality entertainment.

Visitors can have their photo taken on a police motorcycle, drink some billy tea or try delicious icecream and non-alcoholic "mocktails" — all free in the spacious, modern comfort of the Expo Centre.

Visitors can also try their hands at flag and badge making and painting Aboriginal designs.

Performers such as harpists, gum leaf whistlers, giant puppets, clowns, face painters, Koori dancers and magical fairies will entertain the whole family.

Award-winning stands from government agencies at the Expo Centre include the Victoria Police, Department of Natural Resources and Environment, WorkCover, Parliament, Department of Education, VicRoads and the Justice Department.

Big sports

A KEY attraction of the Royal Melbourne Show is the intense competition in many different fields.

They include woodchopping, horse jumping, tent pegging, camp drafting, shearing and dog agility trials.

Nowhere is the spirit more alive than in the Woodchop Pavilion, where the chips fly every day of the Show. This year there have been 1931 entries from 170 competitors in the Stihl Pty Ltd Woodchopping Contest — the third-highest since 1984.

A highlight is a three-test series between Australia and New Zealand, drawing to a head on the last Sunday of the Show. The final test (for under 21s) starts at 1.30pm, Sunday, September 27.

There are seven other woodchop finals scheduled for the last day of Show with the action kicking off at 9.30am.

● A special harness racing meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 22, starting at 6.30pm. The six-race meeting will be held under lights with full TAB facilities available.

● Other sporting fans are catered for with a hole-in-one putting competition on the Eat

Well, Live Well family entertainment lawn, and Shane Heal's Dr Pepper Challenge — a three-on-three half-court basketball challenge open to teenagers.

The Challenge will be a series of play-offs, divided into 15 and under and 16-18 age groups for boys and girls.

● For those who would rather participate than spectate, sporting products and merchandise will be for sale in the Sport and Recreation and Technology for the Family Pavilion.

Defence on display

H I-TECH equipment used by the navy, army and air force will be a feature of the Defence Force exhibition at this year's Royal Melbourne Show.

The exhibition will feature real combat equipment such as a Leopard tank and large, interactive models of the navy's latest warships.

They include the Australian-built Collins Class submarine, ANZAC frigate and Huon Class minehunters. Also featured will be animated models of the Army's Black Hawk helicopter and the RAAF's front-line F/A-18 and F-111 aircraft.

The exhibit will be between the Epsom Rd entrance to the showgrounds and the Police display.

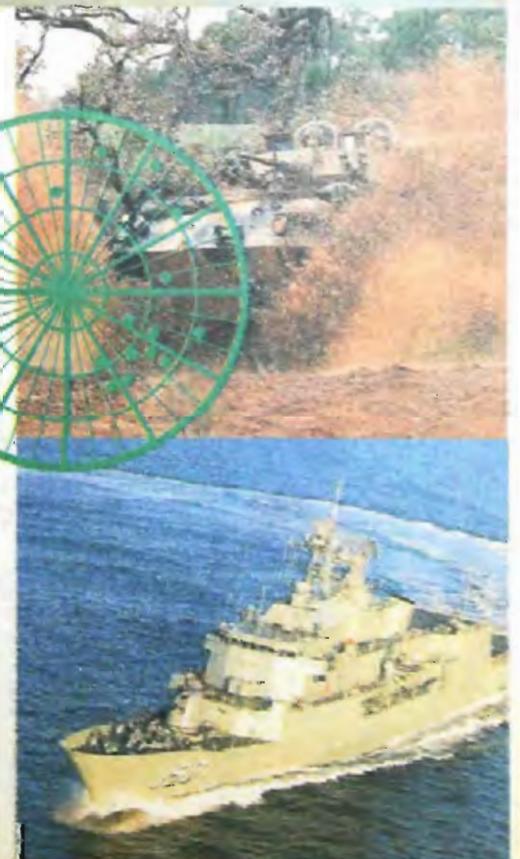

It will include a model of a soldier of the future, communications and armored vehicles, the Navy's Harpoon and standard missiles, a one-third scale working model of the Phalanx high-speed defense system and a large-scale model of the RAAF's new Hawk lead-in fighter.

A multi-award winning exhibition showcasing Australia's modern Defence Force will be held at this year's Royal Melbourne Show.

It is also demonstrated in The Society's running of several very successful farm business competitions annually: The Share Dairy Farmer of the Year, The Commercial Dairy Farmer of the Year, The Commercial Flock of the Year and The Farm Management Competition.
