FROM THE PREMIER

Welcome to the 2014 Royal Melbourne Show, Victoria's largest annual community event.

The Royal Melbourne Show is one of Victoria's most iconic and popular events and plays an important role in promoting and celebrating Victorian agriculture.

Conducted annually by the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria (RASV), the Royal Melbourne Show is held over 12 days and attracts close to half a million visitors – many from regional Victoria – to the Melbourne Showgrounds each year, providing significant economic and social benefits to the state.

Visitors to the 2014 Royal Melbourne Show can enjoy a variety of unique and memorable agricultural and rural experiences that are entertaining, educational and fun.

I encourage you to visit the Tastes of Victoria Pavilion, where you can sample fresh and seasonal local produce, meet some of Victoria's top producers and discover cooking tips from up-and-coming Victorian chefs.

Regional Development Victoria will have a presence in the Woolworths Fresh Food Pavilion, providing visitors with an opportunity to learn more about the valuable role this state government agency plays in developing rural and regional Victoria.

Of course, the Royal Melbourne Show is also a great place to see, touch and even taste some of the great food and fibre products produced in regional Victoria, many of which are highly valued around the world due to their fantastic quality.

Victoria now produces almost 30 per cent of Australia's food and fibre exports with a total value of more than $9.4 billion.

Public transport is the best way to get to the Melbourne Showgrounds, with trains, trams and buses running throughout all 12 days of the event to make the commute as easy as possible for visitors.

I encourage you to attend the 2014 Royal Melbourne Show from Saturday, September 20 to Wednesday, October 1 at the Melbourne Showgrounds to enjoy a great day of fun and excitement with family and friends.

Competitions at the Royal Melbourne Show are about one thing: winning a coveted blue ribbon from the eagle-eyed judges compete for a prestigious Royal Melbourne Show blue ribbon. And bringing their cattle to the city is no easy feat, with many of these beasts weighing more than your average car.

Cattle compete for the title of Supreme Cow or Supreme Bull, then the ultimate Supreme Beef Breed Exhibit in the Beef Cattle Interbreed Championships.

The feature breed for the 2014 Royal Melbourne Show is the Highland, the Scottish breed that is well known for its impressive horns and shaggy red coat.

Well suited to the rugged terrain and postures of their Scottish Highland homes, their lean, tender, flavourous meat is popular around the world.

For a sneak peek into the life of cattle breeders and handlers at the Royal Melbourne Show, don't miss the daily back-of-house tours to see what goes on behind the scenes.

To see how cattle are prepared for the judging ring, take a seat for the Waterford Challenge competition as up-and-coming cattle producers work in teams to prepare their cattle for the judges – washing, grooming and clipping them to allow the handler to show them at their best.

★ SHEEP ★

The finest rams, ewes and lambs will compete for blue ribbon glory in The Weekly Times Livestock Pavilion.

More than 20 different breeds, from the woolliest all-stars to the cutest baby lambs, will be showcased in the sheep judging from Saturday, September 20 to Monday, September 22.

The 2014 feature breed is the Border Leicester, a breed that was introduced to Australia from Britain in 1871 and has an ancestry stretching back more than 250 years.

The Border Leicester is a large-framed, polled (which means it doesn't have horns) sheep grown for its wool and meat, and can be easily recognised by its uniquely shaped nose.

They even have a claim to fame on the big screen, with Border Leicesters appearing in Babe, the film about a pig that wants to be a sheepdog.

Students from across south-east Australia will also take part in the Sheep Schools Competition, putting their skills to the test against fellow students in judging and handling competitions.

The Show will mark Wool Day on Friday, September 26, when the harvesting, processing and end products of Australia's wool will be celebrated.

The Royal Melbourne Show Fleece Competition will be judged in The Weekly Times Livestock Pavilion, with activities demonstrating classing, wool pressing, stencilling and garment production. The award-winning fleeces from the Royal Melbourne Show Fleece Competition will be on display throughout the Show, and donated fleeces will be sold with proceeds going to the Make-A-Wish Foundation and Legacy.

The competition features the Australasian Lamb's Wool Competition as well as Skirted Fleece, Black and Coloured and District Fleece sections.

★ ALPACAS ★

Can you tell your Huacaya from your Suri? Come and meet the alpacas on Thursday, September 25 in The Weekly Times Livestock Pavilion and learn which is which.

Goats' milk is a wonderful source of calcium and is used to make many different products including feta cheese, soap and beauty products, and it can also be consumed by people who may be lactose intolerant.

Boer goats, originally developed in South Africa, are now famous throughout the world for meat production. A male Boer goat, or buck, can weigh up to 135kg.

Horses in Action

The Horses in Action program is one of the highlights of the Royal Melbourne Show.

More than 600 of Australia's finest horses and riders will compete in a spectacular range of blue ribbon events during the 12 days of the Show.

This year celebrates the 100th anniversary of the first Clydesdale Champion title being awarded at the Royal Melbourne Show.

To mark the centenary of involvement of those gentle giants of the equine world, the led Clydesdale judging will be held indoors in The Weekly Times Live-stock Pavilion for the very first time.

You can also take an exclusive tour of the Clydesdale Pavilion and get up close to see how big the Clydesdales really are, meet the owners and see them prepare these majestic animals for judging.

The Horses in Action program will also celebrate the 80th anniversary of the prestigious Garryowen Equestrienne Turnout.

The historic Garryowen Equestrienne Turnout is one of the most anticipated events on Australia's equestrian calendar, drawing immaculately prepared horses and riders from around the country.

The event is named in memory of champion horse Garryowen, whose owner Violet Murrell, one of Victoria's best show and cross-country horsewomen, died trying to save him from a stable fire in 1934.

Since then, the Garryowen Equestrienne Turnout has seen Australia's best female riders vying to win the prestigious trophy. Riders are strictly judged on six areas: horse conformation, manners and paces, saddlery, costume, riding ability and general appearance.

But it's not just the Garryowen competitors who will be judged at the Show.

To celebrate the Centenary of Royal Melbourne Show Clydesdale Champions, a Highland Parade will be held on Sunday, September 28 at 12.30pm on the Coca-Cola Arena. The parade will celebrate the Scottish elements of this year's Royal Melbourne Show and will feature Clydesdales, Highland cows - the 2014 feature cattle breed - and a Highland marching band.

Don't miss the Sport Horse Racing Australian Championships, where Australia's best horses race through a variety of fast and exciting events that test the horse and rider's skill, stamina and speed. See who will win the much-coveted title of 2014 Australian Champion.

And the harness horses hark back to a time before motor vehicles when horse-drawn wagons were a popular mode of transport

Horses of all sizes from the giant Clydesdales to the tiny Shetland ponies will pull traditional and modern carriages in front of the judges in a quest to win a coveted blue ribbon. Some of the classes involve teams of two, three and even four horses hitched together.

The equine action steps up a notch with the adrenalin and competition of Exhibition Eventing and Showjumping.

Now in its fourth year, Exhibition Eventing brings the skill and excitement of the Olympic sport of Eventing to the Royal Melbourne Show. The event features a dressage competition and a jumping challenge, which combines the skill and accuracy of show jumping with the speed and adventure of cross-country riding set to a background of rocking music.

Australia's finest show jumpers will lead their steeds through courses of 10 to 15 jumps up to 1.6m high in a bid to be the fastest around the course with the fewest mistakes. The stakes are high as the jumping section culminates with the World Cup Jumping Qualifier where riders earn points toward their season score where the winner is invited to represent Australia at the 2015 World Cup Final in Las Vegas.

Dog owners will wash, brush and trim their four-legged friends to have them looking a picture of perfection for their big day.

Dogs of all sizes, from the tiniest chihuahuas to the giant great danes and Irish wolfhounds will be on display and looking their best.

The 2014 feature breed is the British bulldog, famous for being a good tempered, family-friendly and dignified breed with a big smile and a big heart.

Meet a gorgeous British bulldog and see for yourself why it is one of the world's most loved dog breeds.

German shepherds will also take centre stage on Saturday, September 20 with a German Shepherd Dog Specialty Show running under the watchful eye of German judge Hans Joachim Dux.

Everyone loves a puppy, and for maximum cuteness don't miss the puppy judging on Sunday, September 21 when the youngest competitors, aged just three to six months, will take their turn before the judges.

You can also get up close and pat puppies at the Pedigree displays in the Pedigree and Whiskas Pets Zone.

The highlight of the Royal Melbourne Championship Dog Show comes on Saturday, September 27 when the Best in Show Awards are presented including Best Breeders Group in Show, Best Baby Puppy in Show, Best Puppy in Show and Best Exhibit in Show.

Once the prancing and posing for the judges is over, the action begins when more than 200 of the country's best trained, most obedient and athletic pooches are put through their paces during three days of obedience, agility and jumping trials.

Have you ever met a borzoi, Manchester terrier, Lagotto Romagnolo or Russian toy terrier?

If not, visit the Breed Showcase from Sunday, September 28 to Wednesday, October 1 to meet more than 25 different dog breeds, learn about their history and watch a range of demonstrations and presentations that feature the abilities of these wonderful dogs.

The dog high jump is always a spectacular event that celebrates Australian rural heritage. This year the stakes are even higher, with a State of Origin Dog High Jump competition between elite teams from Victoria and New South Wales.

And don't miss the world record Big Leap Challenge on Tuesday, September 30 when the super dogs jump heights up to 2.3m.

If you've ever wondered how to get your dog looking its best, learn from the experts with daily grooming demonstrations from internationally recognised master groomer Nicky Renwood, or watch elite dog groomers ply their trade in a range of classes to decide who is the ultimate groomer in the PIAA Grooming Competition.

★CATS★

Pampered felines will be primed, preened and groomed to look their best for the judges at the Royal Melbourne Championship Cat Show, sponsored by Advance, on the last three days of the Royal Melbourne Show (Monday, September 29-Wednesday, October 1).

The prestigious annual competition features a wide range of cats and kittens including the Australian mist, the only 'Australian made' cat, along with the huge Maine coons, adorable ragdolls, fluffy Persians, regal Russian blues and leopard-like Bengals.

The Persian is the 2014 Royal Melbourne Championship Cat Show feature breed. Stella the Persian is the 'face' of the 2014 Cat Show and will be in the pavilion each day of the Cat Show for meet and greets and photos.

Chop!

CHOP!

Woodchopping has been a much anticipated part of the Royal Melbourne Show for more than 100 years.

The combination of muscles and razor-sharp axes sees woodchips fly as competitors race against each other in the Woodchop Pavilion.

Some of the world's best woodchop athletes are locals and have been in rigorous training for the Royal Melbourne Show.

Today's woodchop athletes spend hours honing their skills, building strength and fine-tuning their fitness in training before the big event.

Unique woodchop events include the exciting standing block, sawing, underhand and tree-felling competitions, all of which have their beginnings in the timber industry.

There are speed races, strength contests and precision events as well as those requiring a keen eye and technique.

One of the most spectacular will be the Vicforests Australian Tree Felling Championship. Watch as tree fellers measure their skills, strength and accuracy against each other as they race their way up the tree pole, cutting the log at the top while standing on a board about 2m up in the air.

Then there's the skill of the axe throwers who must hit a target more than 6m away and hope it cuts into the scoring area.

The woodchopping competition will peak with interstate rivalry when Victoria takes on teams from other states to compete for the Tas Pickett Memorial Trophy.

CHAINSAW RACING

One of the fastest and loudest competitions at the Royal Melbourne Show is the Hot Saw, an adrenalin-charged chainsaw race. Watch as master chainsaw experts armed with supercharged tools cut logs with precision at top speed. And despite their brutal nature and speed, chainsaws also have a delicate side. Don't miss the Chainsaw Carving demonstrations on Monday, September 29 and Tuesday, September 30, when master carvers will use their chainsaws to create wooden works of art.
